ED SPEECHES

Louisa Last Monday by Hager and Judge Hendrick.

led to Louisa last Monday was overcast and the air rain, but the roads were full headed this way. They wagons, in carriages, on a muleback and on foot, all one intention actuated of people, and that was Hager. Every train brought and they, too, wanted to Hager. They came early, so that by the time the train pulled in there and enthusiastic committee were ready to receive the Hager of Kentucky. When Judge Hager stepped from the train we will let the course of the Courier Journal

He denied the as- Hager opponent that the Cderate Hager at Pewee Valley was established through the efforts of a Republican State Senator, but said the credit was due to former State Senator Coleman, of Trimble county, himself a Confederate veteran and a lifelong Democrat.

Judge Hager took up the charge of graft in the bill for printing school record books, showing conclusively that under the law the printing commission could do nothing less than pay the bills as they were presented, and said further that if it could be proved that he had in any way mis- represented the facts in regard to the administration of affairs during the past seven and one-half years by the Democratic party, he did not want them to vote for him.

For one hour and a half Judge Hager was closely listened to and he made a most favorable impression His position regarding State affairs may be stated, concisely as follows:

1. Insistence upon faithfulness and economy in the management of public affairs, demanding that public office shall be recognized as a public trust.

2. For the impartial and energetic enforcement of all laws.

3. That there shall be no expenditure of public money except in obedience to law and that strict economy shall be observed in public expenditures.

4. In favor of fostering and developing the educational interests of the state.

5. Insistence upon just and reasonable rates and impartial service from the railroads within principles fair alike to the railroads and to the public.

6. Requiring that all corporations shall bear their just and due proportion of the burden of taxation-no less and no more, that they shall come up to the full requirements of the revenue laws-all interests being placed on an equal footing in the matter of taxation.

7. Welcoming every reform in administrative methods that will reduce the cost of the government to the people.

8. Favoring improvement in every respect possible in the conduct of the state's public institutions, especially with regard to Asylums for the insane.

9. Advocating the promotion of the material development of the state, and of conditions that invite the investment of capital within our borders.

10. Expressing opposition to all economic policies that make for the building of trusts or other combinations that operate to oppress both consumer and producer of the products of the farm.

11. Calling the faithful adherence to the constitution, and to the Jeffersonian doctrine of justice and equal rights to all.

Following the address of Judge Hager, Commissioner's Attorney John M. Waucho, of this judicial district, who had journeyed all the way from Carter county for the occasion, introduced Col. Hendrick in a few well-chosen words, and for an hour the audience was entertained with the wit of the eloquent statesman from Indiana. He certainly captured the crowd from start to finish. It was a succession of pointed, sensible sentences, full of meaning and illustrated by apt and well told anecdotes.

Judge Hendrick defended the principles of Democracy as they have seldom been defended in these parts, and while this was his first visit to Lawrence county, he made a lasting impression on her people. In closing Col. Hendrick said he was sorry the Republicans had not given him as an opponent some other man than Judge Hendrick, so that he could have lambasted him all the way from the Big Sandy Valley to Mills' Point.

River View Hospital.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the hospital last week it was directed that all the physicians of Louisa be made members of the president and surgical staff. This gives every doctor in the town a personal interest in the hospital, and the courtesy is duly appreciated by them. The hospital is steadily growing in favor, and all who have been treated there speak in the highest terms of the institution.

PISTOL DUEL

One Man Dead, Another Dying. Williamson The Scene.

On last Saturday night the streets of Williamson, W. Va., were stained with human blood, shed by human hands, and one man, Murphy by name, lay under the sod. His slayer, Hyron Slater, lies at the point of death from wounds made by the man he killed. As is usual in such and similar cases, particulars are meager and reports conflicting. Boyd Wellman, of this place, who was in Williamson when the tragedy occurred, brought the first news to Louisa, and from a citizen of Williamson this paper received fuller information concerning the killing.

It seems that about half-past ten or the night named Hyron Slater, who is a railroad detective, went in search of Murphy for the purpose of arresting him for an offense committed sometime before. He found him on the street in the central part of town, and, approaching him with drawn revolver, ordered him to surrender. Murphy's answer to the summons was a pistol shot, and the duel was on. Shot after shot rang out on the hill of night until both guns were empty and both combatants lay upon the street.

Murphy was shot through the neck and shoulder and lived but a short time after he fell. Slater was shot in the head, face, back, and through the body. There is said to be absolutely no hope for his recovery. He is well-known in Louisa.

Murphy was a carpenter by trade and so far as we can learn was not known here.

GRAND LODGE M. P. S.

Mutual Protection Society State Meeting Held At Louisa.

The Grand Lodge of the Mutual Protection Society of Kentucky met in 16th Annual Session in the town of Louisa, on Tuesday, Sept. 3rd. After the transaction of the usual business the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

W. E. Duval, of Chatterburg, G. C. G.; O. H. Harris, Vale, L. C. G.; B. Helcher, Ratcliff, G. S.; I. N. Burdett, Ashland, G. T. G.; Wm. Klegcamp, Ashland, G. I. C.; J. M. Lovelace, May, G. O. S.; I. F. Coffey, Bel, G. Chaplain.

Wm. Stringer and W. I. Fugate were elected as State delegates to the next Supreme Assembly, which meets at Russell, Ky., the first Tuesday in October. Morehead, Rowan county, was selected as the meeting place for the next Grand Lodge.

The Grand Lodge returns its thanks to the citizens of Louisa for the kind treatment of its members and to the county officials for furnishing the use of the Court House for holding our sessions.

Grand Lodge Com.

Republican County Convention.

The Republican convention held in this city last Saturday for the purpose of naming delegates to the district convention which nominated a candidate for the legislature was numerously and vociferously attended. The fact is the News looked out of its office several times during the progress of the meeting, thinking from the enthusiasm and activity manifested that an old-time Democratic mass convention was in full swing. M. S. Hurns was the Chairman and W. T. Cain was the secretary. It was a mass primary, and there were but two candidates—M. B. Burgess, of Wilbur, and Earl Moore, of Little Blaine. The convention voted by ballot, and when the vote was counted it was found that Moore had received 319 and Burgess 203 votes, a majority of 116 for Moore.

Boyd county held a convention on the same day for the same purpose and the result was the same, only Moore so.

Uxoricide Near Ashland.

During a quarrel in their home at Oakview, about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, in which it is alleged jealousy largely figured, Mrs. Milt Dixon's brains were blown out by a heavily charged shotgun in the hands of her husband. It is alleged, although he denies it, claiming positively that the woman killed herself. They had been married only three months.

The tragedy that has placed one more blot on the fair name of the Blue Grass State, followed close upon the heels of a sensational occurrence at a platform dance at Oakview, where, it is said, Mrs. Dixon assaulted her husband for dancing with another woman, whom she disliked, and whose name cannot be learned. Immediately after the trouble the Dixons left the dance for their home, still quarreling.

An interesting and more than usually pathetic feature connected with the killing of Mrs. Dixon lies in the fact that the young couple had been married scarcely three months. It is presumed that bitter jealousy on the part of the young wife was the indirect cause of the tragedy.—Ashland Independent.

School Athletics.

Prof. Byington, President of the Kentucky Normal College, has received from T. J. Elliott, of the Sullivan Mining Machinery Co., of Knoxville, Tenn., a check for five dollars as a start toward equipping the college with the necessary furnishings for teaching athletics in the school. This is a step in the right direction. More and more the fact is being realized that the proper working ground for a sound mind is a sound body. And to make the human body sound and keep it so it must have exercise, and exercise of the right sort, taken in the right way. Modern schools, whether they be colleges or primary, recognize the importance of this truth, and their curricula embrace gymnastics and the teaching staff has its professor of physical culture.

It is not the purpose of the News at this time to do more than call attention to Mr. Elliott's unsolicited contribution and to the fact that as soon as it can be done the Kentucky Normal College will take steps to inaugurate a course in physical culture for the school, and means will be taken to make Mr. Elliott's five dollars grow into an amount sufficient to make a good start in the new course. K. N. C. intends to keep abreast of the times, whether it be in educating the brain and mind or developing the muscle and brawn.

Accidentally Drowned.

A very sad case of drowning occurred on Brushy fork of Blaine last Tuesday afternoon whereby a young and beautiful girl met an untimely end. She was a daughter of Rob Travis, and was attending school about one mile from her home. At the recess hour on the day she was drowned she left the school intending to go home. The creek was very high, and while she was walking on some state near the top of the creek bank it broke, precipitating the unfortunate girl into the swollen waters. It is not known whether or not the accident was witnessed by anyone. The body was found about dark below the forks of the creek.

The News is indebted to Mr. F. Daniels, of Brushy, for these particulars.

Attention Grand Jury.

The local option law makes it unlawful to sell, lend, give, procure for, or furnish to another any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors. Almost every day you may see parties bringing liquor to Louisa in baskets, suit cases and similar ways. Often they are met at the depot by friends with well known tastes, and this arouses the suspicion that there is an arrangement by which liquor is to be sold, loaned, given or procured for another. The fine is not less than $50 nor more than $100 for each offense. Here is a fertile field for the grand jury that meets next week.

Change In Livery Business.

Thos. McGlothlin has purchased the interest of John Elswick in the livery stable business of Elswick & Queen. He has also bought from Fulkerson Bros. the stable and entire fourth of the square on which it stands. Mr. McGlothlin is one of the county's best citizens and we are glad to have him for a resident of Louisa. He is from East Fork, where he owns a fine farm. Mr. Elswick has not decided what he will engage in, but it is hoped he will remain at Louisa, as he is a desirable citizen.

PERT PARAGRAPHS

Picked Up At Pike, Paint and Prestonsburg.

Judge H. O. B. Ratcliff is very near death's door from a dropsical affection.

The Winchester Bros., of West Virginia, have, through M. C. Feely and W. K. Elliott, purchased 6,000 acres of coal lands on Island creek, just above Pikeville, and will at once proceed to invest a half million dollars in the construction of a railroad to same, developing of mines, etc. The Winchester have been here looking after developments, and will return again at once.

Jonathan Spradlin, more familiarly known as "Uncle Jonse," died at his home, two miles below Prestonsburg Monday afternoon. Mr. Spradlin was in his 75th year and had only been in a few weeks, when the end came. No better man lived in our community than "Uncle Jonse," and we feel sure if there is a brighter and better country, that he is enjoying its beauties and privileges now.

Prestonsburg, Ky., August 31.—Miss Maggie M. Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Davidson, and Henry Hatcher, of Haroid, were married at the bride's home here Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harry Anvil, pastor of the Methodist church. The bride wore a pretty white silk, trimmed in Valenciennes lace, and a veil of tulle, fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms.

Raymond Burns, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rice, died at their home at Bonanza, Friday afternoon. The little one had been sick only a few days, and its death is a great blow to its parents, this being the second child they have lost in the past year. The funeral occurred today, at their old home in Magoffin county.

Friday afternoon John "Blue" Branham, while at work at his Pop factory in Prestonsburg, was struck with a pop bottle just above the heart, the neck of the bottle breaking and cutting an immense hole in his breast. The bottle struck with such force that he was knocked senseless. It seemed almost impossible to keep him from bleeding to death. He was taken to Ashland and placed in the King's Daughters' Hospital.

A Prohibition Railroad.

The "water wagon" is getting to be the most popular vehicle in Kentucky. The Democratic party is riding on it in its present campaign. One county after another is climbing on under the county unit law. And now comes the Ohio & Kentucky Railway Company and joins the procession in a novel way. The Adams Express Company refused to discontinue handling liquor packages and the O. & K. canceled its contract with the Express Co. This is probably the first instance of the kind in the United States. The Ohio & Kentucky line is located in the counties of Morgan, Wolfe and Breathitt—bad Breathitt.

County Election Commissioners.

The following have been appointed election commissioners for the counties in this section. The first named in each instance is the Democratic Commissioner: Floyd, Geo. B. Martin and J. F. Stewart; Carter, J. M. Saulsberry and W. H. Mockabee; Elliott, J. D. Wian and J. A. Wallace; Floyd, Geo. P. Archer and Malone Hall; Johnson, J. P. Wells and W. M. Meek; Lawrence, L. W. Spencer and W. A. Copley, and Pike, J. S. Cline and J. E. Hatcliff. At this time the Commissioners for Martin county have not been selected.

Whoa, Bob!

About noon day before yesterday Aug. Snyder offed the axles of Gus' light wagon and left the tap off one of the front wheels. "Bob" was already hitched up, ready for home and oats, and Gus was on the seat, reins in hand, for the start. The start was made, but after a few revolutions the neglected wheel rolled off and the fun began. The wheel struck Bob on the behind leg and he struck out on a Maud R. gait. Gus kept his seat while the crowd proffered advice in chunks and loud tones. Up the street they flew, Bob, Gus and the wagon, until they had crossed the railroad. Then Gus said "I'll have to leave you, Bob," and jumped. He hit the ground lightly, turned three or four handsprings and sprang to his feet un- hurt. Bob never even stopped to say "I'll see you later," but with increased speed he went on and on, turning corners and missing trees until he turned the last corner, entered the gate at home and rounded up safe in the barn.

The wagon was upside down, but nothing was broken. Gus walked home and is all right. Bob's bobtail still brushes away the gnats from the Lady Washington street lakes, and he and the three youngsters who are his boon companions will continue to bring the cows from pasture.

Changes In N. & W. Schedule.

LARGE DEAL

Fine Farm Sold by F. H. Yates For $12,500. 00.

F. H. Yates has sold a portion of the Black and Hammond farm, later known as the Lockhaven property, to A. J. Mounts, of Pike county. The sale includes the bottom land, and the Hammond residence with a few acres surrounding. The price was $12,500. Mr. Yates retains about 400 acres of the hill land.

This was the largest tract of river bottom land on the market around here and is very valuable property. Its value will continue to increase.

Speaking Next Monday.

The News has been informed that on next Monday, the first day of Circuit Court, a prominent Democratic speaker, sent here by the Chairman of the State Executive Committee, will speak at the Court House in the interest of the Democratic ticket. His name has not yet been announced, but Chairman Hines said he would send a good speaker, and he will keep his promise. Come out, then, on next Monday and hear the issues of the day discussed in an able manner.

Succotash.

This succulent, unapproachable dish is now ripe. "Fall" beans and tender, sweet, juicy green corn are in the market, and these, with a streak of fat and a streak of lean are the prime essentials of succotash. But it requires the hand of a just mistress in the divine art of cooking to take the bacon and the beans and the corn and unite them and the seasoning in just the right proportions. And when they are properly combined—Yum Yum! Pass the succotash, please.

To California.

On last Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Henry Preston and their daughter, Miss Beulah, started for Redlands in the hope that in that region of perpetual sunshine and pure air the daughter would regain her health.

Their stay in California will be governed entirely by her condition. Their many friends wish that the long trip may result in Miss Preston's complete restoration to health.

Circuit Court.

The fall term of the Lawrence Circuit Court will convene next Monday. Several felony cases are on the docket and as the papers in many other cases have been duly served it is very likely that the coming term will be a very busy one.

Announcement.

We are authorized to announce the name of John H. Spencer as a candidate for Sheriff of Lawrence county, subject to the action of the Democratic Convention.

The bill permitting a man to marry his deceased wife's sister has finally become a law in England, but it will be a long time before it will be made possible for him to marry his widow's sister.

The Elizabethtown News asks if Teddy, wrote Taft's speech, and says "It sounds like it." Not a bit like it. The crisp, epigrammatic sentences of Teddy's utterances are as the sharp crack of the rifle when compared with the ponderous periods and dull thud of Taft's speech at Lexington.

A message announces the death of Judge John Jay Jackson, West Virginia's noted jurist, appointed by President Lincoln. His demise occurred at Atlantic City, where he had been for several weeks hoping to improve his health.

The announcement of the death of no West Virginian could have been praiseworthy of deeper or more general interest than will follow the spread of the tidings of the death of this man, whose rugged personality and legal ability long marked him a character noted far beyond the confines of the state he lived to honor so long and so signally.

The Washington Post, in an extended editorial, predicts that the Democrats will sweep Kentucky this fall. Following is an extract from the editorial: "But Mr. Taft went across the river and gave Kentuckians a lecture on the race problem, something they are egotists enough to think they know all about, and they are even ill-mannered enough to say it is a thing Mr. Taft knows nothing about. Be that as it may, Mr. Taft's speech is possibly worth 5,000 votes to the Democratic ticket. "Other Republicans are announced to follow Mr. Taft-Fairbanks, Cannon, Foraker and Knox among them. This is playing into the hands of Gov. Beckham, one of the most skillful, practical politicians now on the carpet. The Republicans having done what they could to put national issue to the fore, Mr. Bryan has been asked to make a whirlwind tour through Jackson's Purchase to set the old Gibraltar district afire, and that means a Democratic majority of some 1,000 down there, though, if let alone, the majority might dwindle to a third as much. Then former Gov. Taylor, by his refusal to accept the offer of immunity of the Kentucky authorities if he would appear in court and testify in behalf of his friend, Caleb Powers, has made the issue of assassination more or less paramount, and the Republicans will suffer on that account. True, Mr. Taylor offers to appear and submit to trial if he is allowed a political jury; but that does not meet the matter in the slightest. As a practical politician the Republican party is superb north of the Ohio river, but when it crosses that stream it leaves all its sagacity behind. If the South ever turns Republican, it must be accomplished by the arguments and persuasions of Southern men, native and to the manner born. There is nothing strange in that, unless it be that all human nature is strange.

IN MEMORY.

One more life has flitted and gone into the great beyond.

The grim reaper, death, is again abroad in our community and has taken from us our kind, loving little friend, Mollie Gussler. Mollie was born June 3, 1889, died August 28, 1907, aged 18 years, 2 months and 25 days.

She lived a happy and contented life until early last May she was stricken with that dreaded disease consumption, and for three long weary months knew not what rest was. But she did not complain, she said she knew she must die, and God's will be done, she had no fear.

While to some of us death is a dark and fearful monster to Mollie it only meant rest. For she had Christ as her guide, and with him we need not fear. She was happily converted to the religion of our Lord Jesus Christ some time before she died, and from that time on she prayed for God to only relieve her of her suffering and take her home.

Although we miss her God himself only knows, how can it be otherwise when she was always so kind and gentle. Not only will she be missed at home but at school and other places also. In school she was a diligent student, at home a kind and dutiful daughter, and in the sick room Mollie was always ready and willing to do her part. And if we dear friends, wish to live with Mollie and be where there is no more parting and good by's, we must live right, strive to always be kind, patient and true and accept Christ as our Savior and when on the last day we are weighed in the balance, we will not be found wanting.

Oh, this life is sad and lonely! When we think of the toils and cares, of the many missing faces and the many vacant chairs. But toll on, ye weary laborers, till your weary life is done; then we'll meet our dearest Savior, and will say the victor's won. Yes, 'tis hard to gain the victory, hard to fight and win the peace, but we are going home to heaven where our toils and cares will cease. There we'll shout and sing forever and we'll reign above the sky, and there will be no more parting and no precious friends to die.

On last Wednesday morning while working the county road on Tabors creek near Fort Gay, Birch Hewlett and James Thompson, both boys about 12 years old became involved in a quarrel, in which the life was lost when the Hewlett boy struck the Thompson boy on the head with a broad hoe, inflicting a very dangerous, if not a fatal wound. Warrants are out for the arrest of Hewlett, but he has not been arrested.

Last Friday morning the Louisville Courier Journal building was gutted by a fire which destroyed a large amount of valuable machinery and other property. The fire originated in the top story, and before it was discovered it had made such headway that great damage was done before it was extinguished. The morning edition of the paper was gotten out at the office of the Louisville Herald, and notwithstanding the great damage done the Courier was issued Saturday from its old home. For more than forty years the Courier Journal has been issued regularly, never missing a single day. This may it continue.

Swallowed Carbolic Acid.

By some unfortunate mischance a little child of W. J. Vaughan's got hold of a vial containing carbolic acid last Monday, and before it was discovered it had swallowed enough of the stuff to burn its mouth and throat very badly. The accident happened shortly after the little one had eaten a hearty meal, and this no doubt prevented serious injury, if not fatal results.

Found In The Mines.

While at work in one of the mines
of the Chaffield Coal Co. at Peach Orchard, last week, two miners ran across the petrified bodies of three human beings. Two of the bodies were in an excellent state of preservation, but the third was not so good a shape although there was no trouble in recognizing it as having once been a living breathing mortal.

Is Fast Maturing.

The corn crop is fast maturing. The fields are comparatively free of weeds,
and when the corn is put into shock,
the ground will be left in excellent condition for seedling purposes. Some fields of corn are late, but farmers believe the recent rains will be all that is needed to mature.

ning of this week, from 4 o'clock to

Contest Party Returned.

The Big Sandy News contest party

BUCHANAN.

The Odd Fellows and school boards of this district are trying to build a school house and Hall jointly.

Wellman and Fuller are overhauling their saw mill expecting to commence sawing in a few days.

There is quite a large lot of cross ties being hauled to this place.

Willis Roberts has commenced to load out cars of lumber here.

Our county roads are generally in very bad condition.

Rush creek hill near Boyd line is impassable on account of a heavy slide. The citizens of Boyd and Lawrence who were compelled to haul over the roads have removed enough dirt two or three times to enable a vehicle to pass, but in a short time the dirt moves down and blocks the roads. There is no way to move this place. The county officials have been duly notified a number of times about this impassable road. So far no one in authority has come to look after it. It is continually reported in this neighborhood, that the county road machine is kept constantly running in other parts of the county, although the cry is there is no money on hands to pay for roads worked.

The people of the lower end of the county are prompt to pay their taxes, all the collectors will verify this,
therefore we see no reason why a blockade should remain in our leading roads, when it is well known by the county authorities, and that it amounts to too much for the road hands to remove.

Citizen.

OUR WEST VIRGINIA NEIGHBORS.

Huntington, W. Va. August 31. John Henry Birchfield, the oldest resident of Cabell County if not in the state of West Virginia, is dead at his home near Cox's Landing. He was considerably past 100 years old at the time of his death.

Congressman James A. Hughes was in the city Sunday. He says that he is for any candidate the people want for governor and has unlimited confidence in their ability to choose the right man. Regarding his candidacy for another term in congress, he feels sure that he will have no opposition.

One of the worst murders committed along the line of the Norfolk & Western, according to the reports, was committed at Wilmore, McDowell county, near Welch, on Monday evening about 7:00 o'clock, when a negro shot and mortally wounded Conductor S. M. Bolton, of this city. The negro who did the shooting and the two who were with him were arrested and placed in the Welch jail.

The seventeen month old child of James Demsey was killed by a freight train near Naugatuck Sunday afternoon. The child had been left playing on the side of the track while its mother had gone to a nearby pasture field to milk a cow. The little girl was playing in the middle of the track when the engine struck her, and the body was terribly mangled.

L. V. Hardwick has purchased of F. H. Yates all the timber on what is known as the Hammonds farm, and will have it made into cross ties.

John S. Billups recently received a consignment of fine rabbit dogs by express from a friend in the upper end of the State.

The Annual meeting of the Christian Church will be held at Wayne commencing the Friday before the second Sunday in September and will last three days. This makes the date of the meeting Friday, Saturday, and Sunday the 6th, 7th, and 8th of September. Besides the routine business of the meeting several very able speakers will be present and deliver sermons some time during the meeting.

Besides the many other things that West Virginia can boast of, she now claims the world's record for three year old trotters. The colt of General C. C. Watts, of Charleston, won the American Breeders Futurity in the grand circuit last week, smashing the world's record for three year olds.

Parkersburg, W. Va. Aug. 27 Enoch Morgan, 78 years old, for half a century a resident of Webster county, this state is perhaps the happiest man alive today. From poverty in the worst form, he has come to great wealth, and all through the trade of a mule thirty years ago. Morgan, thirty years ago lived in a little hut near Webster Springs. His only possession was a small gray mule and he kept it for years and years until it became worthless with age. A few years later Morgan entered into a trade accepting 750 acres of land, very mountainous and hilly, for the mule. The land was practically worthless, and Morgan could scarcely raise enough on it to pay his taxes. However, it bore considerable timber, but Morgan did not have the capital to get his product to market. In the thirty-one years the land became more valuable, but its owner, being of the 'Rip Van Winkle' type, continued to sleep. Last week a timber concern prospecting through that section in of timber, met up with old Morgan. The concern offered him $35,000 in cash for the 750 acres. Morgan could not believe his own ears, but jumped at the offer, not knowing whether the concern meant business, or was 'kidding' him. He found out, however, that it meant business, and the deed was prepared. The deal was closed and Morgan now has $35,000 in cold cash in the Webster Springs bank to his credit, all through the sale of his little grey mule.

BAGGAGE SMASHING DAYS

"In other days," said Mr. MacBlink, "the story of what the baggage smasher did to the trunk was a hardy, perennial, ever blooming and unfadingly appealing, but where is that story now?"

"In those days when the baggage master wanted to get a trunk down from the top of a high pile of trunks he never lifted it down, but just pulled it far enough forward to let gravity get it and then, with just the right slow on it that it would land on its corner, let it fall.

"And then baggage masters used simply to push trunks out of car doors and let them fall any way they would, and they'd tear the straps off trunks lifting on them, and yank off their handles, all these variations of the baggage story being supposed to be funny and often repeated.

"People seemed never to tire of it in what was perhaps its most favored form, which told how the brave baggage master lifted the trunk by one handle and swung it twice around his head and then launched it on its flight from the station platform to the baggage car to land violently there and split wide open and scatter its contents everywhere. In those days, indeed, the baggage master was the baggage smasher, and always provided that it was not one's own trunk that was thus demolished, everybody enjoyed reading the stories told about this brave man's feats of strength and destruction, which formed indeed a conspicuous if not the leading feature of the comic literature of the day. But where are those stories now?"

"They were dead and for a time by baggage stories of another sort, those dealing not with what the baggage smasher did to the trunk, but with what the trunk did to the baggage smasher. There, for instance, was the story widely reprinted at the time, of the circus man who, having his trunk smashed up till he was tired of it, finally filled a frail trunk with his contraband and got that checked, and when the baggage smasher had smashed the trunk the box contraband was released from it, wrapped themselves around and crushed him.

"And there was the story of the disgruntled mining man who finally filled and checked a trunk full of dynamite—the baggage master who handled that trunk never handled trunks any more. And the story of the business traveler who had his trunk fitted with extra pieces of peculiarly elastic rubber, so that when the baggage master dropped this trunk out of the car door to fall on a corner, as he was sure to do, the trunk would fly up and hit him under the chin.

"Not evidently the trunk smashing story in whatever form was preferred out when it came to this, and soon thereafter it passed out of fashion and disappeared entirely. We heard no more from that to the present time.

"Perhaps the people had tired of it, as they do of all things; perhaps there was less reason for writing it. Trunks came to be better made, for one thing, less easy to smash. And we are generally less boisterous now than we were then; things that we stood for and laughed over then we would not stand for now.

"We do many things better now, and one of our many improvements is found in our manner of handling trunks. The railroad now discourages trunk smashing, and seeks to deliver baggage in the shape in which it is received. Not but that things do happen even now to trunks, but they don't happen as they used to.

"In fact what with the requirements of the railroad company and his own sense of the value and higher art of baggage handling it is not considered good form now for a baggage man to smash a trunk. He still does pull trunks down from the top of tall piles and drag trunks from car doors and from the tails of wagons, but no longer, as a rule, to let them fall on their corners.

"Now when he pulls down or drops a trunk he so manipulates it in falling as to make it drop not on a corner but squarely on its end. This sits the contents of the trunk up pretty well, and it may strain the trunk more or less, but dropping it squarely on the end distributes the strain. It doesn't smash the trunk as trunks were smashed in the old days when they were dropped on their corners. In the present day, development of the art of trunk handling to smash any but a very weak and fragile trunk would be considered bungling.

"So times have changed, and the old story no longer grows. The old times were brought back to me yesterday by seeing a trunk fall off a baggage wagon into the street, a sight, I confess, that was joyous to me.

"But I suppose it is better as it is."

Many Miles of Icebergs.

While it is difficult to estimate accurately, the total front of the Greenland ice fields is probably 200 miles. Roughly speaking, there are about 1,000 square miles of icebergs set afloat each year in the north water. Taking the original area of each of the bergs as a quarter of a square mile, this supply provides a fleet of 4,000 bergs each year.

HE HATED FLATTERY

I am a busy man and, anyhow, I know lots of girls whom I'd rather waste time on than Rose Gildman.

"Why," began his friend with the wavy hair in exasperation, but the other cut him off with a gesture.

"Oh, I know all you are going to say," he exclaimed. "I admit that she's a nice girl and that she's pretty. But what is more pretentious? That may do for the average man, but I look further. I'm surprised that you should be so devoted to her. She isn't my kind and I haven't any desire to go to see her."

"Now, see here," cried the young man with the wavy hair, "Rose is a tip-top girl—I never knew any one else to take such interest as she does in her friends. She makes a fellow feel that he amounts to something, and—"

"Trotter," said the young man with the beetling brow, solemnly, "I am disappointed in you. I thought you had more discernment. That is precisely what makes me dislike Rose Gildman. There is no sincerity in her. She flatters every one and works him to a finish. It is just her little method of consooping."

"I guess I know the real thing when I see it," stumbled his friend. "I'm more than seven, and I don't have to be led on flattery to preserve my health."

"You are like all the rest," persisted his friend with the beetling brow. "There are mighty few men impervious to flattery. It isn't anything against you, my boy; not at all. You may outgrow it. I never realized that you had a touch of flattery for it till just now, but I can see how Rose Gildman got you in the toils. I heard her one evening saying to Smith impressively that she thought he was the most wonderful man to have invented that flimsy automobile attachment which he thinks is so great. I warned her she told you she never heard of anything like the golf score you made last summer."

"The young man with the wavy hair was honest. "Of course she did," he said. "But I like her, anyhow. That had nothing to do with it. I am not a fool."

"Of course you aren't," said the young man with the beetling brow, soothingly. "It's a human failing of nearly every one. I'm just an ordinary individual, yet I really think I am remarkable in one way. From the time I was a mere child I have instinctively detected insincerity and hated those guishing, lay-thon-thick sort of people. They repel me. Why, Trotter, I've seen fellows who would swallow the blindest sort of flattery by the shovel, smile like a Cheesecake and beg for more. It makes me sick. None of it for me. It's nothing but downright flattery for a girl to do as Rose Gildman does."

"I am sorry you dislike her so," said the young man with wavy hair, stuffily. "I shouldn't have asked you to call with me, only I thought it might please her. I was going to tell you what she said, but, of course, you wouldn't be interested. Now is business now in your—"

"See here, Trotter," broke in the young man with the beetling brow. "You mustn't take offense, you know, and feel that way. I was just analyzing Miss Gildman impersonally. She's all right, as girls go. I suppose. What was it you said she said?"

"Oh," said the young man with the wavy hair and the lurking smile. "It really doesn't matter, since you are so little interested in her. (She was saying the other evening that she greatly admired a young man who could make such a success in a few years as you had at the bar.)"

The young man with the beetling brow frowned and moved in his chair. "Did she?" he murmured. "I had no idea that she took such an intelligent interest in important affairs."

"I suppose you can't always judge a person without really knowing her. Oh, well, Trotter, I admit that I may have been harsh. To square myself with you I don't believe I mind dropping around there to call some evening this week. I haven't anything on hand just now. I don't like to foster a 'Don't Believe I'd wrong opinion of anyone.'"

"All right," said his friend. Then, for no apparent reason, he laughed.

A DOZEN HUNDRED.

NUMBER OF CLASSES AT KENTUCKY STATE FAIR.

PRIZES AGGREGATE $25,000.

Every Department Will Be Filled With the Cream of Displays From Other Fairs.

Fairs, international, national, state and municipal, have been held since civilization had its begin and passing years have not only dimmed their light but have served to make it more brilliant. At no time perhaps in the history of Kentucky have there been so many county fairs as have been held or will be held in the state during 1907. The number has grown to more than fifty. These county fairs serve to draw all classes closer together and it is fitting that they should form the spokes of the big bus which is known as the Kentucky State Fair.

The State Board of Agriculture, early in maturing the plans for this year's exhibition, which will be held in Louisville, September 16 to 21, arranged to have personal representatives at all of these fairs. These representatives have carried with them catalogues of exhibits and premiums, and attractive advertising matter. At every place they have met a most cordial welcome. Exhibitors, both of live stock and in other departments, were solicited and it is in no sense an exaggeration to say that the cream of the exhibits of every county fair will meet in conjunction at the Kentucky State Fair.

At the September exhibition, the competition will be for prizes that aggregate $25,000 in cash. The classification covers horses, mules, jack stock, beef and dairy cattle, swine, sheep, goats, poultry, cattle dogs, bison, tobacco, field seed and grain, flowers and vegetables, plants and flowers, women's work, children's work and table linens.

There are 1,175 different rings in which great money is offered, while there are a total of over 200 different prizes. The horse money is divided among horses suitable for light harness, five-gaited saddlers, coaches, combined harness and five-gaited and American carriage, three-gaited, plantation saddlers, runabouts, high jumpers, Shetland ponies, thoroughbreds and what are classified as the "poor." The mule premiums are most elaborate on pairs and single horse and single mare mules, while great money is offered on jacks and ponies. In beef cattle, the classification is complete on Short horns, Herefords, Angus, Durhams, Aberdeen Angus and Red Polls. Most attractive premiums are offered in the dairy cattle department for Jerseys, Holstein-Friesians, Ayrshires, and Guernseys.

The swine department includes Shires, Duroc-Jerseys, Poland-Chinas, Chester Whites, Tamworths, Yorkshires, Hampshire, etc. The money for sheep is divided among Hampshire, Cotswolds, South Down, American Merinos, Oxford Down, Hampshire and Dorset. Interesting competitions are arranged for ducks and geese in the Angora Goat Department. The poultry premium list covers every known fowl in which the nation of the country is interested and the same is true of the pig department.

Recognizing the great interest that farmers are displaying in the Cattle Department as the successor of the Sheep Department is given to the former and some very handsome money offered. The departments for vegetables and melons, tobacco, field seed and grain, cover premiums that will appeal to all who are growers of these products. In horticulture there are prizes of awards in cash to be made in apples, peaches, pears, grapes, etc. Plants and flowers are not neglected and the money offered should prove a great inducement both to the amateur with the greenhouse, and to the professional florist.

In the pig department there is a more interesting collection of premiums than in that set aside for woman's work, children's work and table linens. It is confidently expected that farm implements and machinery will be shown to a much larger extent than ever before at a Kentucky State Fair.

Ball firms, of Woodford county, are showing their faith in their horse, Montgomery Chief, in a most substantial way. They are offering $250 in two equal premiums for best 1907 foal of Montgomery Chief and for best foal of any age of Montgomery Chief, at the Kentucky State Fair.

The concerts daily, at the Kentucky State Fair by Nabelle and his premier band of fifty all-star artists from the "Land of Music" should prove an amusement that should strike joy in the hearts of everyone at all musically inclined.

THE BRAZEN SERPENT

Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 8, 1907
Special Prepared for This Paper

LESSON TEXT.—Numbers 21:5. Memorize verse 5.
GOLDEN TEXT.—"As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up: that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life." John 3:14-15.

TIME.—More than 3,000 years after our last lesson, Aaron died on the first day of the first month (July-August), of the fortieth year since leaving Egypt (Num. 33:38). The fiery serpents attacked the people a few weeks later, in September (Num. 21:4-9), according to the common chronology.

PLACE.—Aaron died at Mount Hor, on the border of the Edom range, about the eastern border of the Arabah. The serpents were in the great salt and broad valley called the Arabah, south of the Dead Sea, and extending to the eastern arm of the Red Sea.

Comment and Suggestive Thought.—We left the Israelites, in our last lesson, at Kadesh Barnea, on the border of the south land of Edom and the northern border of the great desert of Paran. They had refused, through fear and unbelief, to go up and take possession of their inheritance, and were condemned to remain in the desert for 35 years longer. All all over 20 years of age had died. They arrived at Kadesh about a year and three months after the exodus, and left it nine months before taking possession of Canaan. During those years "Kadesh" was probably their central nucleus or rendezvous. They would naturally change their locality from time to time, like the Bedouins of all ages, but still preserving the hope of eventually becoming possessors of the land of promise. Meantime they are not to be conceived as dwelling in their intervals of repose, in a compact camp, which the nature of the country forbade to such an immense multitude, but as expatiating in bands, here and there, over the adjacent country, still having the tabernacle as the center and the rendezvous to which they would return.—Hugh. Some of these wanderings are given in Num. 33:19-36, extending as far south as Eilat (Gaza) on the eastern arm of the Red Sea (1 Kings 16:6).

Some of the events recorded during this period are: 1. Korah's Rebellion (Numbers 16), which grew out of the long delay and disappointed hopes. 2. Aaron's rod budded (Numbers 17) to prove that Aaron was the divinely chosen high priest. 3. The death of Miriam, the sister of Moses (Num. 20:1).

4. Water from the rock at Meribah and the sin of Moses that kept him from entering the promised land (Num. 20:2-13). "And the people spake against God, and against Moses." Their bitter feelings grew so strong that they were expressed in words. Their former murmurings at Kadesh had been treated leniently, and water had been supplied, apparently at their soggy demand. They seem to have interpreted the miracle there as an instance of mercy in spite of their wicked course, but as a response to it, and they therefore now repeated the experiment of insurrection.

Thus the Israelites tempted God (1 Cor. 10:9; Heb. 3:9). They put his patience and forbearance to the test, and did all they could to make him give them up as hopeless. The Fiery Serpents of Sin.—No better emblem of the results of sin could have been given to the Israelites, or to us. "The true, peculiar, pernicious, fiery serpents were their mercurial disposition and complaints against Jehovah."—Lange. Sin is like a fiery serpent, often beautiful in appearance, and secret in its approach. But the effects are pains that only fire can express.

Repentance and Salvation.—Vs. 7-9. Confession. V. 7. "We have sinned." The evil effects of sin made them feel conscious of their sin and its greatness. The real evil is the sin, and not the punishment. But it is only by the punishment that men realize the evil of sin itself.

"Against the Lord, and against thee." All crimes against man are sins against God. And all sins against God work wrong to man. "And Moses prayed for the people," expressing their distress and feelings. There is real power in intercessory prayer. Their praying made it wise and safe to give blessings that would have been an injury to those who had not the spirit of prayer. One of the objects of the punishment was to turn their hearts to God.

The Cure.—Note in what a peculiar and yet blessed way the prayer was answered, not by removing the serpents, as they probably expected, but by a way that healed their souls as well as their bodies. So Paul's "thorn in the flesh" was not removed, but God's grace was made to abound as a blessed fruit growing on that stem.

As the sin and punishment of the Israelites were the fruits of unbelief, the true method of help was first to restore faith and then healing. "Practical Points." Christ crucified is the most conspicuous object in the history of the world. It is the center around which the whole moral and religious warfare of the world is gathered.

The power did not lie in the brazen serpent, but in God himself who could bestow healing upon those who showed by their looking up to it that they believed in God and repented of their sin.

Salvation was by faith, the only way in which free pardon can be offered without increasing the sin of the world.

COLLEGE PROFESSOR MAYOR.

Dr. Taylor Chosen to Succeed Schmitts at San Francisco.

San Francisco.—Dr. Edward R. Taylor, physician, attorney, educator, for 45 years a resident of San Francisco, has been elected mayor of the Golden Gate city to succeed Eugene E. Schmitts, convicted of grafting.

Dr. Taylor is between 60 and 65 years of age and is well known throughout the country as a physician and attorney. His acceptance of the office was actuated entirely by his desire to aid the Golden Gate city in shaking off the shackles of corruption.

and graft, which have retarded municipal development.

Dr. Taylor is a very accomplished man and has made a reputation as a poet by his metrical translations of the "Sonnets of Meredith" and by several original poems. He has always been an opponent of union labor. The new post mayor will have a job on his hands, because of the fiddler-mayor, Eugene Schmitts, now behind the bars, who denies that he is incapacitated for office until his conviction has been confirmed by the court of last resort.

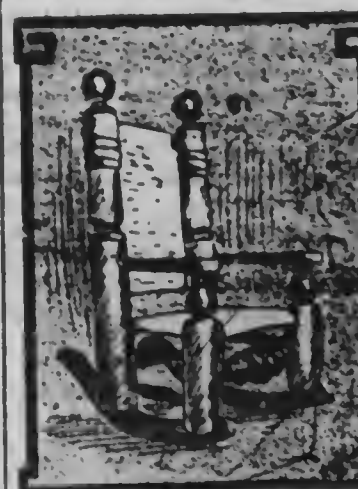

Schmitts has appointed Samuel Sawyer of the Typographical union supervisor to succeed Charles Boston, who admits he took a $5,000 bribe, but was made acting-mayor for a short time and is now replaced by Taylor. Schmitts means to replace all the 35 supervisors who were involved in the bribery revelations and San Francisco undoubtedly will have two city administrations as a result.

UNIQUE ROCKING CHAIR.

New York.—When Attorney Delphin M. Delmas, who defended Harry K. Thaw at his first trial, returns to New York from San Francisco he will find that the most conspicuous thing in his offices on lower Broadway is a tremendous oak chair. It has massive posts, shining like mirrors, and on one of them is a silver plate bearing this inscription:

"Presented to Delphin M. Delmas. After a hard-fought battle, he seated in an Old Cape Breton Rocker. Compliments of E. Le Roi Wilks, Sydney Hotel, Sydney, Cape Breton."

Mr. Wilks, who is a keen sportsman and the owner of several imported first harness racing, has a hobby for presenting distinguished friends and men of weight with chairs of this pattern. The late President McKinley received one of these big chairs and often declared that it was the most comfortable he ever sat in.

Nerve Sick

If weak, worn-out, nervous, cannot sleep; have indigestion, headache, neuralgia, or periodic pains, it is because your nerves are weak. It is the lack of nerve force that makes the stomach, heart, lungs, etc., work imperfectly—become sick. Dr. Miles' Nervine cures the sick when it restores nerve strength, and puts the power behind the organs to do their work.

"Almost three years I suffered from nervousness, indigestion, and palpitation of the heart. I could not eat or sleep with comfort, or walk or talk without suffering. Altogether I was in a bad condition. My doctor did not seem to do me any good. I had tried so many remedies that I did not have much hope of any of them doing me any good. Dr. Miles' Nervine was suggested by a friend. I got relief from the first bottle. After a few days I felt like a new person. I had not only relieved my heart and nerves, but had invigorated my whole system. I am very grateful because since I have stopped using it, I have had absolutely no return of my old trouble."

MRS. HOWARD FORD, 90 Summit Ave., Worcester, Mass. Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

Women have suffered with their feet for years because they could not get a nice shoe that would not hurt. The necessity is at last met in the "Society" shoe for women.

Nice, graceful curves, conforming to the feet with an elegance so simple that there is beauty and comfort in every pair.

Thousands of women have ruined their feet because their shoes were not built along foot conforming lines.

That's why the "Society" shoe was necessary. The necessity for a nice dress shoe that won't pinch and hurt is making the "Society" shoe a friend to the foot and the most popular seller, at the price, we have ever found.
